

Free

3-part live webinar series for educators

Presence and Resilience in The Classroom

Creating an educational environment for improved mental health, learning and well-being

With Bev Willcocks, Ami Chen Mills-Naim and Gabriela Maldonado-Montana

- ❖ Are staff/pupil relationships at an all-time low?
- ❖ Do you feel that behavior issues are getting out of control?
- ❖ Are levels of learner anxiety, depression, stress and eating disorders on the increase?
- ❖ Are staff and pupils struggling to come to terms with societal issues like racism, gender based violence, sexual preference and abuse scenarios?
- ❖ Is staff burnout at an all-time high?

If you answered YES to any of these questions then this free webinar series is for you.

Sign up here to join us for a look at building relationships and connection between teachers and pupils in ways that engage new levels of understanding, improve behavior, ignite resilience, increase performance and reduce teacher burnout.

Bev Willcocks is a South African transformational coach and speaker and in this series, she is joined by international education facilitators Ami Chen Mills-Naim and Gabriela Maldonado-Montano, both globally recognized teachers who have worked in communities and school districts across the world as trainers and consultants.

Ami and Gabriela are skilled at bringing hope and transformation to some of the worst-case scenarios in education. They offer this series pro bono as they are passionate about bringing a new and profoundly transformative yet refreshingly simple understanding to the education system across the globe.

Webinar 1 – Building connection and strong relationships

Monday 26 February 2018, 7-8pm (SA time) / 9-10am (PST) / 5-6pm (UK)

Webinar 2 – Beyond behavior

Monday 5 March 2018, 7-8pm (SA time) / 9-10am (PST) / 5-6pm (UK)

Webinar 3 – Well-being in the classroom

Monday 12 March, 7-8pm (SA time) / 9-10am (PST) / 5-6pm (UK)

To register and sign up please visit www.bevwillcocks.com

*Ami Chen Mills-Naim is a global speaker and educator on innate wellness and resiliency with over 20 years' experience teaching the "Three Principles". She is also author of State of Mind in the Classroom: Thought, Consciousness and the Essential Curriculum for Healthy Learning, and The Spark Inside: A Special Book for Youth.*

With her late father, the social scientist Dr. Roger Mills she co-founded the non-profit Center for Sustainable Change, and served as its Executive Director and Education Director for a decade, working with the W.K. Kellogg Foundation to bring principles of innate resiliency to communities across the United States. She has also worked extensively with both mainstream and alternative schools (including juvenile corrections education) across the globe. (www.amichen.com)

Gabriela Maldonado-Montano has for the past 20 years been sharing the three fundamental principles that help human beings experience life with a sense of enthusiasm and hope. She has an abiding commitment to helping children and youth thrive and benefit from their natural creativity and capacity to learn. Gabriela has worked for non-profits and government agencies in a wide variety of settings including: elementary, middle high and high schools as well as juvenile halls, and detention facilities for youth. Inspired by her work in the educational system Gabriela collaborated in the creation a children's book in Spanish to demonstrate how resiliency can be engaged in young children.*

Currently, she trains individuals globally who wish to promote wellbeing with children and adults. As an international speaker, she works seamlessly with ethnically and culturally diverse populations in the United States, Latin America, and Europe.